PROUSET PICKED.—A poor German woman, whose husband is in the Hecker regiment, was yesterday morning robbed in the Post. Office of $28 in greenbacks. Her pocket was undoubtedly picked while alse was reading the advertised letter lists, as just previous to that time she had her hand upon her pocket. Two or three strange men were crowding about her, apparently reacting the lists. The poor woman had received the money from her husband, and the dashardly thief who stole it robbed her of every cent she had in the world. The men who stole it ought to be hung up at the first lamp post.
